MARRIED ON HORSEBACK.

A Novel Wedding Ceremony in Kansas City. [From the Kansas City News, 28.] (From the Kansas Cily News, 28.)
Yesterday morning, just as services were opening at the Congregational church in this city, and as Mr. B. Wright was entering the building, a lady snd gentleman rode up on a pake of pracing horses, and requested that they should see the preacher. Mr. Wright informed them that services were opening in the church, and that he would prefer not interrupting the minister at that time.

"Yes, lut," replied the gentleman, "we must see him right away."

"What do you want with him?" asked Mr. Wright.

and that, too, as we are, just now, on horsebek."

Mr. W. was somewhat surprised at the strange demand of the parties, and athough he fel! desirons of complying, as far as he con'd, with their wiskes, yet he doubted the legality of such a marriage, as also did Rev.
Mr. Heskman, who happeced to be in the church and who was called out by Mr. Wright for consultation in regard to the matter.

Judge Jenkins was then called out and interrogated as to the legality of the wedding.
The Judge at once dissipated the doubts of those who questioned the legality of the mariage, and relieved the anxiety of the couple,
who were patiently walting for the ordeal.

Out on the streets then, is front of the church, and while training for the ordeal.

Out on the streets then, is front of the church and while training the corporation and Mr. Wright as witnesses, Mr. Beakman performed the marriage coremony for the happy couple, and the two romantic hearts were united for weal or wee, for belier or worse.

The lady was quite young and beautiful, wotte. The lady was quite young and beautiful, the gentlemsn was much her scolor to years, but also fine looking and manly, and the happiness manifested by their faces when the ceremony had been performed is beyond description. Their names were Ephraim Harbyat and Lhaile Cook.

The evening before the veteran General was tricken down with the illness that closed his eventful career, he made a most interesting statement to the editor of the Troy Whig, which conveys a practical lesson, and shows how may it is to become rich after obtaining the list deliar, if one is weather to obtaining the conveys a practical leason, and shows how cany if is to become rich aiter obtaining the first dollar, if one is prudent and economical. "I never made but $2.900 in may life!" said the General emphatically, 'but I always kept that at good interest." On our expressing surprise, he went on to explain. It seems that at the close of the war of 1813, the General found himself terribly wounded, but shout even with the world in a pecuniary point of view. Shortly afterward the Gevernment seat bit no to the lar South and West on a special mission coanceted with military affairs, and for five years he traveled over mountains, and through the almost itselfies wilderness, and secomplished his difficult mission, as he always did, to the entire satisfaction of the Government. He had not drawn a dollar from the treastiry, except for setting expenses over the same of his large fortune. General Wood was then about the type for the company of the same of his large fortune. General Wood was then about the tage of eight-veight. Now, let the reader take this $20,000, which, at compound interest, will nearly double every ten years, and in the fifty pears intervening between the will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will find that it will amount to just about the General's ceale, he will see when the center of the see the will be will

And this at a cost of a million of dollars! A neatly-printed and well-filled paper, entitled the Louisville Commercial, and devoted to the interests of the Republican party, made its appearance yesterday morning. It is edited by Colonel Kelly, who comes here recommended in very high terms as a gentleman of accomplished scholarship and social standing. Colonel Kelly is assisted by an efficient corps of subordinates, who give, in the first number of the new enterprise, a pledge of amiduous service. The Commercial will no doubt receive the liberal patronage of its party, which has every reason to look for editorial counsel and comfort of an ortho-dox description. We wish it that measure

The story of this Konig "and his triend and countryman, Bauer," is the story of the origin, not only of the machine which we call the "printtruth, not of an aggressive or controversial temper, and prefer silence at all times to ing press," but nearly relates to the origin of the "Press," as we under-stand the term, and is told at great length and detail by Mr. Samuel Smiles in a recent number of Macmillan's Magazine.

It he had loved money as he loved power he would have died "rich as the wizard king, through list he mines of Ind." When a number of his friends among the rich men of New York offered him a gift of a hundred thousand dollars he rejected the offering, not because it is mproper for an officer of the Government to receive such a gift, but because the record thereof might stand as a bar to his political advancement. We are told by his sulogists that he abandoned a legal practice worth fifty thousand dollars as year to except the position of Secretal years, and yet he saved no money. This is conclusive proof that he did not value money. His highest ambitton was to sway unlimited power. That power he attained under the administration was to sway unlimited power. Having accomplished so much, Konig well-known London printers, Taylor and machine, the first press having been con-structed with a "platen"—the printing being done by two flat surfaces, as with the taken to provide for futhand-press of our day. Konig was very unfortunate in his partner, Bensley. Finding that he could realize nothing from his book-machines, Bensley having refused to join him in proceedings in defense of his patent rights, he determined to leave England, which he did in 1816. He thus lost the reward of his valuable inventions. No sooner was he out of the way than William Nicholson laimed to be the inventor of the printing machine, and the claim was not disputed, as there was in London nobody who then cared to do so. Nicholson was the inventor of a printing press, which he patented, but it proved to be worthless.

Finally Mr. Walter, of the Times, came forward in defense of Kœnig's claim. He had corresponded regularly with him for ten years, and when it was necessary to ten years, and when it was necessary to construct improved machinery to meet the increased circulation of the Times, he sought the assistance of Kennig in the construction of an eight-cylinder press. But, as Kennig's establishment was too far from London, the machines were built by Applegath. This was about the year 1823. On the 2d of December 1824, the Times On the 3d of December, 1824, the Times Konig's claim to the invention of the steam printing machine. Mr. Walter concluded his article with the following:

Tal marriage of M. de Lessepa was celebrated on the 25th of November in the charch of lundin, Egypt. The ceremony was private, as with the exception of the Board of Directors, no person connected with the works of the 1sthmas had been officially informed of it. At a o'clock in the afternoon a carriage prove up containing M. de Brager and his daughter-in-law, Mme. Charles. The bride, who is twenty-oise years old, tall and a brunctte, looked Charming in her wedding attre, and wore a flagmificent set of jewels, the gift of the Espress. The bride is of Koglish extraction and was born on the island of Mauritius. THE Empress of France, as she appeared a the Imperial yacht, at the crowning point of the Suca celebration, is thus sketched by an American correspondent: "Eugenle, of ble about her except her glorious form and unsurpassed grace of movement. Her eyes are glassy, and give at first sight an impression that she squints, which is by no means so. Her eyebrows are a peculiarity seldom seen, but yet do not detract from her good looks. Her mouth is edither classical nor Roman, nor of any particular kind. The upper lip is cut straight across the face, and contains several seams in it as she speaks, which is never prestly. The mouth is positively too large, and the way it exhibits the teeth when open does not seem size. Her nose, though not familiess, does not necessarily command criticism. It is the narrow forehead, the glassy, expressionless eyes and the coarse mouth, which evoke a critic's daslite, but these objections are all lost sight of when one gases at the magnificient bust of the Empress and the glorious undulations of her form. The dress she wore exposed her bosom rather more than a decent man might like his wife to do."

A Hoosen Entron, in Vincennes, Indiana, laving invested the earnings of years in a two-by-four gazette, purchased, doubtless, at a dollar store, finds it too short to hide the agonar store, mads it too short to hide the length of his ears, judging from the attempt at facetiousness in the following paragraph: "A Cincionatt ledy, who is cauvassing our city for Mark Twain's 'Invocents Abroad,' was mortally offended by our mitd aliasion to lady canvascers last week She interviewed us on Wednesday with a revolver, and notified us that our editorial carporation was before minent danger of immediate perforation, shra-sion or punctursion by sundry and diverse builets from the pistol aforecaid. No greater mistake is made by people who advertise than in the value they set upon editorial puffs in the newspapers. What we mean by that is the at plat of articles found in the local columns and "leaded" as editorial matter, and generally descriptive of somehody's eigars, candy, eock-tails, or cabba rea. Many people suppose these to be the most valuable advertisements, when in fact they are the very poorest. Western men are generally broadminded, and the carcestness, depth, and untiring activity which distinguish them will give them the seat of coupler. Chicago will be very little behind in the race, but it is the ngliest city Mr. Cheater has ever ason. ANEODOTES AND ADVENTURES.

The small amount of conversation (says your admires) in a crowded dinner-room is perfectly amazing. Now and then you hear at "Wa'al. Cohonell" or a "How is your health, Gen'rall" but as a mile a dead and heavy sulence prevails, and people eat on as if tuellives depended upon the amount they could stow away within a given period. The gravity, too, is amazing. Men wear an afr as if some heavy misfortane was brooding over them, and a hearty laugh is of the rarest possible occurrence. stow away within a given period. The gravity, too, is amacing. Men wear an aft as if some heavy misfortane was broading over them, and a heavy misfortane was broading over them, and a heavy hangh is of the rarest positive, and the state of the rarest positive, and the state of the rarest positive, and the state of the state of the rarest positive, and the state of the state of the state of the state of the state, a sausage, ham and eggs, and, fany, some fried oysters and buckwheat cakes. Such is the kind of order a delicate-looking creature will give to the loutish negro water. Sometimes when one has established oneself in a song seat in a railway of an extra window and on the seats, a he-she looking woman cell come up and say, "I sean that seat," and one then has to turn out and perhaps stand for forty miles or find a seat in another crowded carrage. Not a cyllable of thanks is ever vouchsafed for this plees of compliainance.

Americans will endure almost any insuli from a railway official. Whatever happens they sit quiet and smoke or chew. A loaded truck got off the line in front of the train in which Mr. Chester was traveling to Chicago. After a delig of more than an hour he went to him, and asked him how long a charly smok ling, and asked him how long a charly smok was likely to last. He answered that he "didn't know, as he had not been to see what was the matar." On mentioning this answer to sfellow-passenger, the latter said, "Guess he knows best," and all appeared quite contented. They were detained three hours.

Now for the last surprise. You will hardly credit it but true it actually is that these amis ble and loving sketches end in the following sterons, the paragraph being stuck on as it were, and kocking foolially foreign to the wait. "Englishmen and Americans," phoserves Mr. Chester, in closing his pious performance, "are, after it, and cousins, but brothers, whose virtues are whose vices are a common beritage. Next, the pairiot escapes to the country and resumes particulars none more. A few hundred of them hand together, and then we have of gallant deeds! They pounce upon deserted plantations and burn up the sugar crop and the negro quarter, and forthwith our great journals shrick the tidingwof "Another Grand Patriot Victory!"

and with all our hearts we hate those Spaniards for burning up those pure patriots, and we know we are stucere, too, notwithstanding we cannot somshow help feeling rather glad they did it.

A Fortunate Thrust.

A few days since Captain Chase of Jewell's Island, Mc., an old genuteman about eighty years of age, started from home for Fortland in his sailboat, accompanied by his little grandson, about eight years old. When about half-was between Owerset and Pumpkin Knob the little boy felt cold, and his grandfather told him to go forward to the caddy and warm himself. The boy started, but tripped in some way, and fell overboard. As quick as he could the old gentleman brought the bost round and loosed his sail, but no eigns of the boy could he seee. Lucklify he had a long twelve-floot boat-book on board, and, when when he got over the spot where he thought the boy sax, he thrast the hook down into the water, and, wonderful to feliate, at the third thrust it caught in some of the boy's clotting and he was fashed out. A man case out from Long Island in his skift, sading these was some trouble, and the boy was brought to hand, and, after considerable labor, restored to his senses. A Fortunate Thrust.

EXCHARGE—Has not been active to-day, but the EXCRAGE—Has not been active to-day, but the upply is also light, bence we quote exchange on New York at % to 1-10 discount buying, and par gelling. As New York is the great jrade conter of the country, nearly all remittances are made in checks on the backs of that city, but when any of our banks have balances in Cincianatt, Philadelphia or Boston they check in these places at the same rate as on New York. There is a slight demand just now for exchange on New Orleans, as some of our grocers are paring for sugar purchased in that city. We quote bank checks on New Orwans % discount buying and par to % premium settling.

Yearcidar after noen, about $15,0° check, an unknown man walked out upon the staging of the U. 8. Mail Line steamer, Gen. Lytie, and jumped into the river, between the steamer and the whelf-boot. A lied, named Thomas Sulivan, who was in a xiff a chort distance from the spot, harried to the rescue, and seized hold of the man, who struggled desperately to get swar, and persteenily thrust his head under the water. Ar. Henry Trace and his brother Lowis, who were at work upon the steamer Leonora, jumped into a kiff and wet to the assistance of the lad, and his main force succeeded in dragging the man into the skiff, but too late to save his life.

Corober Shadhurne held an inquest, and the jury returned a verdet of voluntary drowning. The man was entirely unknown here, and there was nothing upon his person by which he could be identified. He was about thirty-five years of age, die feet eight or ten landes high, dark hair and mit undershirt, call boots. On his left arm, it linds nirt, were the latters J. T. No. 2. In his spektet were found a well-worn procket-boot containing a single nickel, a tin case containing a part of seed-framed spectation, and a small book, in which was a numoranda of boots and gatters made and the price paid for each bar, from which fit is believed he was a shoemaker by trade.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

Three Young Men Narrowly Escape a Watery Grave.
Yesterday afternoon three young men, between seventeen and twenty years of age, nam, d John A. Larkin, Michael Doyle, and Barney when near the head of the dam they got too far our from shore, and were drawn over the dam by the force of the current, which is very swin at that point. Once below the dam they were unable to return, and the fails. They attempted to steer for Corn leiand, but having but one pair of oars, were unable to make much headwar. At a point near the head of Corn I-land the skiff situck a sing, and was a samped, throwing the young men into the ley water. The skiff filled with water and upset, and Doyle and Schenk, being excellent swimmers, struck out for Corn Island, and after a desperate struggle in the chilly water. Teached it is live, but completely exhausted. Larkin claim, to the stern of the skiff, which was footing bottom upwards, and drifted down the falls through the Kentuck's chatts. As he neared the bridge his perious sit-of the skiff, which was floating bottom upwards, and drifted down the falls through the Kentacky chaits. As he neared the bridge his perilous situation was discovered by the workmen on the bridge, who, unable to render other assistance, threw planks and timbers into the river. One piece of timber, though intended to save him, enume very near causing his death, as it strock within a few feet of him, and from the great beight from which it was thrown, it, if it had strock him, would have cut him completely in two. Below the bridge a short distance be managed to citatuber upout the skiff, and a listic farther down he succeeded in righting it and into it, though it was filled with water. Using one of the seats as a paddle he was chabled to regale one of the cars, which was filled with water. Using one of the seats as paddle he was chabled to regale one of the cars, which was filled with water. Using one of these sats as a paddle he was chabled to regale one of the cars, which was filled with the current, and in this manner floated down to a point opposite Shippingport, where he circ attracted the attention of Mr. Wm. Necdy, who rescued him from his portions position. He scole recovered from the effects of his favoluntary bash and proceeded bonns. His companies were certain that The had been drowned, and were very much as considered and delighted to see him allive.

THE GENERAL COUNCIL.

A Matter of Prime Importance—It Demands Immediate Action.

The General Council will meet to-night in regular session, and among the questions which will come up is one, which just at this time, is of parsmout timportance.

At the last seaton a resolution was introduced, and unanismouth adopted in the lower board, instructing the City Attorney to pre pare, in proper form, one or two acts as amendments to the prescat charter. These acts were to confer upon the Council the authority necessary to enable that body to assess for taxation, by the scre, all the real existe within the city limits not laid off into low, and that not only for the year 1876, but for 1868 sloc. There is a very large amount of land within the present limits, in the condition to miss taxation without an enabling act, because it has not been laid 'off into low. Having passed the lower board last Thursdown high, it will come before the Board of Alderines to-night.
The ordinance was introduced by Mr. McAleer, chairman of the Finance Osemblies, who is parted as to the necessities of the revenue for the coming year; and it is hoped the upper board will take up and adopt the ordinance at once.

But it has been subspanisally abandoned. The most recent of the proclamations, that of Governor Bullock of Georgia, is dated from Washington; and the inspiration of Congress is poured into all the Southern States through the mouths of just such agents, or, worse, the mouths of cannon and muskets. Congress subjects Texas to martial law. The emissaries of Congress manipulate an election. Congress decides upon that election. The Legislature put the power belongs to Congress. If it is refractory it is put out of power and another put in its place. In a word, Congress, under the prefext of reconstruction, defies the Constitution; and, if the people of the United States submit, it is, as Mr. States as to State and States submit, it is, as Mr. State as to State and State submit, it is, as Mr. State as to State and State submit, it is, as Mr. State as to State and State submit, it is, as Mr. State as to State and State submit, it is, as Mr. State as to State and State submit, it is, as Mr. State as to State and State submit, it is, as Mr. State as to State and State submit, it is, as Mr. State and State are trying to induce the President to give him the place on the Supreme bond, made vacant by the death of Mr. Stantan, the may be a very clever tellow, but the idea that a man who spells Carter with less than the proper bench or any other beach is State and Tition says, as easy to divide Texas as to

As the resources of reconstruction are exhausted by the clamors of the "hately in rebellion," new States must be created in order to keep the Radical machine going and supply new pretexts for Radical naurpations. This is the sum of it.

I seem say the storm exceeded my expectations, and has reged load andlong. But now that there is a comparative stillness, I shall proceed, first, to prove what I have just been asserting, and second, to add to my true story such facts and incidents as I did not think proper at first to state."

Local selects and bonds still surset some alten-lion. Several good-stand lots of bonds have charged hands, and prices are locking up. We learned of a round lot of old liability bonds sold at Id. We also note frequent inquiry for county bonds. A few orders for Grayeou county bonds hand at the body of closium, and there is a
